

If you are claiming support for a child who is the “age of majority” or older, you must include Form L. The “age of majority” in Newfoundland and Labrador is 19. Include a separate Form L for each child who is 19 or older.

The Child Support Guidelines apply to children. When a ‘child’ is over the age of majority the court needs information to show that the child depends on the parents for support.

If you are a claimant / recipient

A claimant is the person claiming support, and who will receive the support for the child. If you are applying to change the amount of support for an ‘age of majority’ child, you are called the “applicant”. You will also fill out Part 1 of Form G, and all of Form K.

Form L goes through the child’s living arrangements, education, finances and employment, education expenses, and reasons why the child depends on the parents for support. What information you should include is listed in each section. Using your working copy, read each section carefully. This is the evidence that the court will use to make an order. It is important that it be complete and accurate.

It is not likely that you will have all the information you need. You may have to get some of it from the child, or from other records. There are also other forms to fill out. Use the worksheet to make a list of documents you need to get, or things to do.
